A MISSION TO THE HEART OF AFRICA. LONDON, Oct. 2 .- A correspondent of the National Associated Press writes from Rome September 20th, giving the particulars of a mission which the Propaganda have ordered the Society of Jesus to plant in the heart of Central Africa, with one station on | dent. the shore of Lake Bangweola, where Livingstone died. The head of the mission is Father Depelchen, a Belgian Jesuit, who has spent eighteen years in past Indian missions. The other members of the mission have been drafted from the houses of the Order in England and Scotland, and the mission itself is to report to the English provincial. All is now ready for the departure of the priests. The mission is designated as the "Mission of the Zambesi Valley," and its boundaries will extend from the River Limpope on the south to the sources of the Zambesi and Zaire and Lake Bangweola on the north, taking in the Lake Niassa district on the east and the Lake Massa district on the east and having the eighteenth degree of longitude from Paris for its western boundary.
